

Empirical Behavioral Models to Support Alternative Tools for the Analysis of Mixed-Priority Pedestrian-Vehicle Interaction in a Highway Capacity Context

Schroeder BJ, Roupail NM.

Procedia - social and behavioral sciences

2011; 16:653-663

ARTICLE IDENTIFIERS

DOI: 10.1016/j.sbspro.2011.04.485

PMID: 21643488

PMCID: PMC3106312

JOURNAL IDENTIFIERS

LCCN: not available

pISSN: not available

eISSN: 1877-0428

OCLC ID: 320496773

CONS ID: not available

US National Library of Medicine ID: 101531411

This article was identified from a query of the SafetyLit database.