Homicide rates are spatially associated with built environment and socioeconomic factors: a study in the neighbourhoods of Toronto, Canada

Mohammadi A, Bergquist R, Fathi G, Pishgar E, de Melo SN, Sharifi A, Kiani B.

BMC public health 2022; 22(1):e1482

ARTICLE IDENTIFIERS

DOI: 10.1186/s12889-022-13807-4

PMID: 35927698 PMCID: not available

JOURNAL IDENTIFIERS

LCCN: 2001227315 pISSN: not available eISSN: 1471-2458 OCLC ID: 47666345 CONS ID: not available

US National Library of Medicine ID: 100968562

This article was identified from a query of the SafetyLit database.